OEHS Professionals Help Update CIH Certification Exam

A nine-member panel of occupational and environmental health and safety professionals was instrumental in evaluating the scope of industrial hygiene practice in preparation for the Spring 2022 Certified Industrial Hygienist® (CIH®) examination.

The nine professionals were appointed to conduct the evaluation by the Board for Global EHS Credentialing (BGC) in 2021 to the Job Analysis (JA) Panel to work closely with the psychometric and testing services company, Scantron Corporation.

The panel identified the domains, tasks, knowledge, and skills essential to the performance of a Certified Industrial Hygienist. They were then reviewed by a representative sample of professionals in the practice of industrial hygiene to validate the recommendations.

The JA panel represented a variety of practice settings, geographic regions, educational levels, and years of experience.

“BGC appreciates the dedication of these professionals who have taken on this important responsibility,” said BGC Examination Director, Ron Drafta, CIH. “Their work has helped create the blueprint for the CIH exam which will be offered beginning in April 2022.”

The updated CIH exam blueprint can be viewed on the BGC Website.

BGC offers the premier certification in the world for occupational hygienists: the Certified Industrial Hygienist (CIH). These are professionals dedicated to protecting the health and safety of the workforce and our communities. Earning the CIH requires that candidates meet rigorous education and experience requirements, pass an examination, and recertify every five years by fulfilling certification maintenance requirements designed to enhance the ongoing knowledge and skills of the CIH. There are almost 7,000 CIHs globally.
